(Company Name) to Mingle with Photographers at Imaging USA

(Your City, Your State)—Photographers better plan ahead, for (Company Name) has announced that it will exhibit at the Imaging USA tradeshow (Imaging EXPO) in Nashville, Tenn., January 10-12, 2010.

(Mention any new product/services you'll have available, or any show specials you know you'll offer...anything that will entice photographers to come visit your booth.)

Specializing in (service or product), (Company Name) sees the Imaging EXPO as an excellent opportunity to make face-to-face contact with existing customers and attract new clients. "Photography and imaging professionals are at the heart of our business," says (Name, Company Name's Title). "And Imaging USA is one of the best places to reach them."

If professional photographers want first crack at some great show specials and the chance to ask (Company's) specialists their questions, join them at the upcoming Imaging USA in January.

About Imaging USA:

The first major industry event of the year with the largest expo in North America exclusively for photography and imaging professionals, Imaging USA also includes almost 100 educational programs and the world's largest annual exhibition of professional photography. In 2006, Imaging USA became home to SEPCON, the annual conference of the Society of Sport and Event Photographers (www.SEPsociety.com). That same year, Imaging USA also welcomed Adobe as an official sponsor of Adobe Photoshop and Lightroom for Photographers education. In 2008, EPIC School, the annual convention for the Evidence Photographers International Council (www.evidencephotographers.com) also started co-locating with Imaging USA.

Imaging USA is produced by Professional Photographers of America (www.PPA.com) and their allied associations. With 22,000 members, PPA is the world's largest non-profit association for professional photographers and a leader in copyright advocacy. For more information, visit www.ImagingUSA.org.
