“Over the years, we have attended many conventions, but the highlight of each year was and still is attending Imaging USA,” adds former PPA Chairman Michael Timmons, M.Photog.M.Artist.Cr., CPP, F-ASP. “The education everyone has access to here is nearly unlimited, from speaker after speaker presenting their messages, to when friends come together and share.”

Imaging USA is the longest-running international photographic convention, tradeshow and image exhibition in the world. The event dates back to 1880, when PPA began organizing its annual convention and trade show, ran by professional photographers for professional photographers.

More than 10,000 photography enthusiasts descended upon PPA’s hometown of Atlanta, Georgia for three days of photography education and inspiration as well as some exclusive photography-related shopping.

Highlights of this year’s event included the three-day Imaging Expo trade show, featuring more than 600 booths, giving photographers the opportunity to demo and purchase the latest products at deeply discounted and tradeshow-only prices. The event also hosted more than 100 speeches, presentations and hands-on demonstrations by some of the most respected names in the industry. Photographers also found mentoring opportunities, portfolio reviews and 10,000+ photographers to network with and create career-spanning relationships—a real bonus for photographers, who typically work for themselves.

The photography learning and networking extravaganza helps photographers like (YOUR NAME) become better photographers and businesspeople, allowing them to better serve their clients in the process. For more information on Imaging USA visit www.ImagingUSA.org .
